ABSTRACT

This annual report provides a statistical picture of the ethnic composition of the Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD). It includes information on office staff, and on each elementary and secondary school, school for the handicapped, children's center, and adult and occupational education school. These statistics show that the Hispanic count has continually risen from 18.6 percent in 1966 to its current high point of 55.7 percent. Black student percentages rose from 21.4 percent in 1966 to 25.3 percent in 1973, and have, since that year, slowly declined to the current low of 18.2 percent. White student enrollment has steadily declined from 56.1 percent in 1966 to its current 17.7 percent. Asian, Filipino, and Pacific Islander students have slowly increased from 3.8 percent in 1966 to 8.1 percent in 1986. Students of American Indian or Alaskan Native heritage have remained at approximately the same count: in 1966 they were 0.1 percent and in 1986 they were 0.3 percent. The 1986 combined minority population of the district was 82.3 percent. In the appendix, Table A offers a two-page overview of LAUSD ethnic enrollment from 1966 to 1984. Appendix Table B reports data for 1985 and 1986. Appendix Table C compiles all 1986 grand total sections into a single display. (PS)

PREFACE

Context

This 21st annual report of ethnic information for the Los Angeles Unified School District meets requirements set by the federal Office for Civil Rights (OCR), the California State Department of Education, and the LAUSD Board of Education.

The 1986 survey day was October 7. Using class rosters of October 3 (norm/classification day) and personal observation, teachers counted their students by ethnic categories. October 3 enrollment reports served to validate survey counts.

Ethnic counts of certificated and classified staff in schools and offices came from computer-based personnel files.

Definitions of ethnic categories used in the fall 1986 survey follow this Preface.

Content

The Table of Contents shows an overview of this report's reorganization. Schools appear in alphabetical sequence, within kind of school, by region or division. Numeric names precede alphabetic. A region or division summary follows each listing of schools, eventually aggregating as district totals.

To preserve consistency with previous years' counting categories, Table A in the Appendix represents all school groupings except three: children's centers, special education schools, and adult division sites. Counts and totals for schools in these three groups appear as the last three sections in the report. Tables in the Appendix present historical and current perspectives.

Ethnic survey results from 1966 through 1986 are graphed inside the front cover.

Observations

The graph inside the front cover shows that in 1967 the Hispanic count began ascending from its base of 18.6% in 1966 and has never receded. It now stands at its highest point in 21 years: 55.7% of all students are Hispanic.

Black student percentages have traced a slow arc from 21.4% in 1966 to a high of 25.3% in 1973, and down to the current low of 18.2.

White student enrollment has steadily declined from its 1966 mark of 56.1% to the current 17.7%. The sharpest drop occurred between 1977 and 1978 (4 percentage points), and the last 7 years have seen a consistent annual decrease of about 1 percentage point.

Except for 1973, Asian, Filipino, and Pacific Islander students have slowly increased their combined representation, from 3.8% in 1966 to 8.2% in 1985, falling slightly to 8.1% in 1986. The graph inside the front cover shows the three proportions, each within a fraction of last year's figure.

Students of American Indian or Alaskan Native heritage have ranged within the less-than-1% band for 21 years. They entered the survey in 1966 with 0.1%, ran to a high of 0.9% in 1976, and registered 0.3% for 1986.

The rising proportion of combined minorities met the falling proportion of Whites at the 50% mark in 1970. Both lines continued on their diverging trajectories, with the 1986 combined minority figure showing 82.3%. For comparison, the 1984 proportion of combined minorities in California schools (K-12) was 46.9%.

LAUSD enrollment in grades K-12 has shown steady growth during the 1980s, from a 1980 start of 534,712 to the 1986 high of 584,883, an increase of 50,171 (8.58%). As shown in Table 1, this represents a distinct turnabout from the decreasing enrollment pattern evident throughout the 1970s, with an overall drop of 115,612 students between the 1969 peak of 650,324 (highest ever) and the 1980 low of 534,712 (lowest in 21 years).

The official K-12 enrollment total on norm day, October 3, 1986, was 585,510, as reported by the Financial Services Division. (This excludes students in special education schools, children's centers, and adult division schools, to be consistent with the groups historically included in Table A.) The corresponding ethnic survey total of 584,883 is 0.11 of a percentage point less than the official total. (Note that ethnic survey counts by teachers are not official enrollment counts.)

In the Appendix, Table A offers a two-page overview of LAUSD ethnic enrollment from 1966 to 1984.

Appendix Table B reports data for 1985 and 1986. It parallels the historical data in Table A for five ethnic groups, and extends the series of annual counts for seven groups.

Appendix Table C compiles all 1986 grand total sections into a single display, for easier reference.

The fall survey of ethnicity is actually a census, accounting individually for 732,462 students (restoring the omissions noted for Table A), 37,056 teachers and administrators, and 34,530 classified personnel.

The accuracy and completeness of this year's report is attributable to principals and their staffs, programmers in Information Services Division, and the Survey Unit in Research and Evaluation Branch. Their diligence in 1986, as in prior years, is commendable.

Note. The U.S. Office for Civil Rights has mandated a survey of ethnic membership in LAUSD each October since 1966. The designations are those assigned by OCR and the California State Department of Education. They were applied to students by teachers using personal observation. Percentages were calculated across ethnic categories for level and total; slight rounding errors may be present. The lettered footnotes explain variations in student grouping over the years. For comparability from 1966 to 1984, counts of students in special education schools, children's centers, and adult division sites were excluded from this table. Filipino students are included with Asian/Pacific Islander. [a]1970-1975: includes prekindergarten. [b]1972-1977: Jr. & Sr. High Schools include continuation high schools; Elementary Schools include alternative schools. [c]In 1978, alternative schools and magnet schools became Schools of Choice. For 1980-84, Schools of Choice include alternative schools and magnet schools/centers. For 1978 through 1984, Jr. & Sr. High Schools include continuation high schools and opportunity schools/centers; year-round schools appear with elementary and secondary schools. [d]Based on District Summary Totals.

Note. Grade spans indicate range taught. Some elementary schools do not have grade 6, and some junior high schools do. The configuration for most high schools (which includes opportunity and continuation high schools) is 10-12; some also have grade 9. Schools of choice (magnet schools/centers and alternative schools) teach grades K-12, as applicable. The groupings presented in this table make its data comparable to those in Table A, with minor adjustments: for example, Table A reports five ethnic groups and Table B shows seven, complying with a 1985 California law; also, junior and senior high schools are reported separately in Table B.
